Richmond Greets Her War Veterans

Chewning, Welcoming Fighters Home, Urges Them To Stay Here, Develop City

By
LEWIS G. CHEWNING
President, Richmond Chamber of Commerce

This is a welcome home to Richmond veterans and an appeal to you to remain in Richmond, grow with the city, and help make it the kind of city you want it to be.

LEWIS G. CHEWNING

Richmond's finest asset is her people, not her factories, historic traditions, office buildings, wholesale or retail establishments.

America's future leaders will be those, who performed patriotic war service. It will be Richmond's gain if you devote your talents and energies to the development of your native city.

Economic opportunity at home will be studied as young men make their decisions. Admittedly there is room for improvement in Richmond's economic life. In this respect the energy, enthusiasm and special abilities of Richmond's war veterans can be directed toward making Richmond a better place in which to live and do business.

Richmond veterans during their war service have visited many cities, larger and smaller than Richmond, and it is natural that you should have made comparisons. Because it is human to regard the grass in our neighbor's yard as being greener, Richmonders everywhere will profit by analyzing Richmond's advantages and opportunities, and working to improve conditions.

This edition seeks to give veterans a rounded picture of steps already taken to aid veterans returning to civilian life; points out Richmond's economic health, discusses postwar job prospects here, and brings Richmond veterans uptodate on civic developments during their absence. Show this issuse to your friends. Your comments will be appreciated.

Jobs Near Peacetime Normal, Krug Asserts

The Wall Street Journal says:

"Manufacturers will be producing at a rate 12 per cent higher, in dollar value, by the end of this year than in the 1939-41 period", W. P. B. Chairman Krug predicted.

He said employment in December "will be 94 per cent of peacetime normal, and by June, 1946, production and employment will be 187 per cent and 138 per cent, respectively, of normal."

'Economic Outlook Bright'--Gov. Darden

By
COLGATE W. DARDEN, JR.
Governor of Virginia

(Governor Darden is a Veteran of World War I—Editor's Note.)

I have been requested by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce to state briefly my faith in Virginia's postwar economic opportunities, with a special reference to the part that Richmond may be able to play.

GOV. DARDEN

Virginia enjoys a favorable geographical position, and our proximity to large centers of population in the North and East affords us a market for our manufactured products. Richmond, as the manufacturing hub of the Commonwealth, has diversified industry and commerce, and consequently stands to profit from a revival of normal trade which will come now that the war has ended.

While it is true that any general revival in trade which affects the Commonwealth will have great influence upon the City of Richmond, since it is the largest financial and manufacturing city of the state, it is important that we

HOW TO GET STARTED IN YOUR TRAINING PROGRAM

This folder is intended for use by any veteran who expects to go back to farming or who wants to make a start in that occupation for the first time, but who does not expect to enroll in an agricultural college. It tells you how you may get the help you need to become an efficient farmer in your home community or in the community you may select as the place to live.

One or more teachers of vocational agriculture will be found in nearly every county in Virginia. All of them will be glad to help you in planning and carrying out a practical training program. If you do not have a teacher in your home community or do not know how to get in touch with him, ask the principal of your local high school or the county school superintendent. If they can not give you the information you want, write to D. J. Howard, State Department of Education, Richmond, Virginia. He is State Supervisor of Agricultural Education and can tell you about the training opportunities in any part of the State.

KINDS OF TRAINING PROGRAMS

When you have made your contact with a teacher of agriculture he will explain the details of the plan for helping you with your farmer training program. In general, this is what you may expect to do:

1. If you have not completed your course in high school and would like to do so you may enroll in the regular high school program, including vocational agriculture as one of your subjects. This means that you would carry a practical supervised farming program on the farm on which you live. If you have as many as 25 hours of class work a week, including agriculture, you will be entitled to full subsistence.

2. You do not have to take any other high school subjects except agriculture unless you prefer. If you take agriculture alone you will be expected to include the following for full subsistence:

   a. Two hours of instruction each school day for nine months and 28 hours weekly of practical instruction on the farm during the same period.

   b. During the summer months the on-the-job instruction must be for 36 hours weekly.

On-the-job instruction will be supervised by the teacher of agriculture or a qualified farmer. It simply means that you will learn to do the jobs on the farm by doing them in the proper way. The kind of work you do will be planned so as to give you the skills and experiences you will need to become an efficient farmer.

3. If you do not wish to go to high school at all you can get full subsistence by:

   a. Working on a farm where you will receive on-the-job training 36 hours per week for 52 weeks or a total of 1,872 hours per year. Your work will be supervised by the teacher of agriculture who will also assist you in planning the training program.

   b. Taking supplementary instruction in an evening or part-time class, according to a plan worked out by the State Department of Education. The teacher of agriculture will explain to you this part of the program.

4. If you are a disabled veteran you may, in addition to having an opportunity to secure the kind of training previously described, have the option of taking on-the-job training on an individual basis. This means that the teacher of agriculture and a representative of the Veterans' Administration would help you plan a training program suited to your physical conditions and needs. The farmer on whose farm you worked would be your instructor, under the general supervision of the agriculture teacher.

5. Some of you may wish to take a special short course of nine months or less that will be offered at the State College of Agriculture, Blacksburg. A similar course may be offered for Negro veterans at the Petersburg State College. It will be well to inquire about this possibility when you plan your training program. You may take such a course in addition to the work previously described, if you desire.

GENERAL INFORMATION

In addition to full-time subsistence, veterans may be placed on a three-fourths, one-half, or one-fourth subsistence basis. As was indicated, the programs described above are for those on full subsistence. For one-half or one-fourth subsistence you would enroll for one-half or one-fourth of the full time on a weekly basis.

If your on-the-job training is being received on a farm belonging to someone else, it is likely that you will receive some pay for your work. The amount you are to receive will be determined by the farm owner and agriculture teacher.

The programs described in this folder will be set up on a one-, two-, three-, or four-year basis. You may enroll for as much of the entire program as you like, provided you do not exceed the amount of time which you are allowed for your training program.

HAMPTON INSTITUTE
HAMPTON, VIRGINIA

OFFICE OF THE BUSINESS MANAGER

October 2, 1945

Mr. George S. Mitchell
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Room 432
63 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I appreciate your kindness in sharing with me the correspondence which you received from Abner N. Locklear. It is always gratifying to receive some word from the students who are helped with the funds from Hampton Institute. I shall mention this case and that of Miss Ola Lee Jacobs in my next report to the Board of Trustees.

With very best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

C. L. Reynolds
Business Manager

Mr. Thomas C. Allen, Director
Virginia Council of Churches, Inc.
Department of Interracial Cooperation
1444 East Main Street, Room 215
Richmond, Virginia

Dear Mr. Allen:

I have been in New Orleans for the last couple of weeks and so am late in answering your letter of October 5th.

I think your program is excellent. I have no suggestions which would improve it, and in any case I hope by this time it is locked in print.

I am sorry about the meeting on the 23rd. I had told you I would be in Virginiathat day. Later a meeting came up in Chicago for the 23rd. I am still to be in Virginia the 24th and hope to be at your office that morning. By present plans, I shall be in Virginia the 24th through 31st, and of course I am counting on the 7th, 8th, and 9th of November.

It seems to me you ought to have an installment paid to the Virginia Council toward expense of the Institute. Here is a check for a hundred.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

VETERANS SERVICES

Dr. George S. Mitchell,
Room 432,
63 Auburn Ave., N. E.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear George:

I am sending you the tentative program outline for the institute on November 8 and 9. The names checked have already accepted the suggested assignment. I would like for you to study very carefully the phrasing of topics and make any suggested changes.

We shall begin the publicity the first of the week sending out a preliminary announcement and letter of invitation to the people whom we would like to have attend the institute.

Very sincerely yours,

Tom

CONFERENCE OF SOUTHERNERS

Julius Rosenwald Fund

November 10 and 11, 1945

AGENDA

1. Development of Personnel

2. Educational Programs of the Julius Rosenwald Fund

DEVELOPMENT OF PERSONNEL

The Fund has long been interested in the development of personnel and desires to be of maximum influence, during the remainder of its life, in the preparation of leaders in various phases of race relations throughout the nation and specifically of leaders in social, economic, and cultural progress in the South. Our work in this realm may be briefly summarized as follows:

Fellowships to Negroes. The Fund has offered fellowships to Negroes of outstanding promise since 1928. This program has been a notable success. It is so widely known throughout the South and the nation that its further development presents few problems.

White Southern Fellowships. In the early thirties, the Fund offered grants-in-aid to southern students of social problems through the Social Science Research Council. In 1937, we enlarged our Negro fellowship program to include white Southerners working on some problem or subject distinctive to the South.

Fellowships in Race Relations. A new category of Rosenwald fellowships was set up a year ago for candidates from any part of the country who showed special promise and who wanted to develop themselves in preparation for work in one or another phase of race relations.

Development of Special Personnel. For a number of years, the Fund has, within its program of rural education, undertaken the development of personnel for this field. Similarly, when we entered into an active program of race relations, we recognized the need for especially trained individuals. We have, therefore, undertaken the development of special personnel for specific posts in race relations organizations, especially for the American Council on Race Relations, the Bureau for Intercultural Education, and the Chicago Mayor's Committee on Race Relations.

We have been well satisfied with the accomplishments of our program of fellowships for Negroes and propose to continue it at about the present level during the remaining years of the Fund.

Among the 179 white Southerners who have received grants, awards have been made chiefly to persons in the academic fields, the majority to teachers in the social sciences in southern colleges. Over a long term, well prepared and liberal teachers wield important influence, but their immediate effect on the social climate is slight. Newspapermen, preachers, business and labor leaders, and politicians have much more direct influence on present society and in setting the directions in which it is to go. We desire counsel on how our fellowship program can be made to reach these influential groups.

We hope to find ways for the expansion of the program of developing personnel in race relations. Many agencies, both public and private, are expanding their services and are searching - often in vain - for qualified personnel. At the same time, many individuals - including officers and men of the armed services - have gained new interest in these problems and are groping to find ways to make a career in some phase of this field. Are there ways - apprenticeships, the payment of salaries for an initial period, the financing of special training, or other methods - by which special personnel may be developed within the general field of race relations? And can a clearing house be set up on anything more than an informal basis for bringing together prospective personnel and possible career positions?

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS OF THE JULIUS ROSENWALD FUND

During its early years, the work of the Julius Rosenwald Fund in the field of education was that of schoolhouse construction. From 1917 to 1932 more than five thousand "Rosenwald schools" were built, financed by state, local, and Fund money. The state and local sources spent $24,042,000, while the Fund spent $4,366,520. During this period, the value of school buildings in the South was doubled. This stage of the Fund's work ended about 1932, and George Peabody College for Teachers was given the building plans and designated as the agency to advise in the continuation of this work.

In 1935 the Board of Trustees decided that teacher education should be the Fund's next primary concern in education. Since then, the Fund has made contributions to four teachers colleges (Tuskegee Institute, Jackson College, Fort Valley State College, and West Georgia College) for the direct purpose of stimulating sound practices in the preparation of rural elementary teachers. Realizing that competent and stimulating leadership is essential to good teaching, the Fund has also made contributions to three centers (Georgia Teachers College, the University of Georgia, and George Peabody College for Teachers) for the training of principals and county supervisors.

With the exception of Tuskegee Institute and Peabody College, the Fund has worked with state-supported institutions. Our policy has been one of matched grants planned over five-year periods, the state's contribution increasing as the Fund's decreased. Each state has more than met its obligation, so that today as this program nears completion, the total annual budgets made possible through state appropriations are much greater than they were in 1940. Fund officers have given these institutions their services in a consultative capacity.

These programs have been carried out in cooperation with Negro and white institutions within the limits of the laws which compel segregation. Occasionally the leaders of both groups have been brought together, but up to this time no direct effort has been made by the Fund to challenge the traditional segregated pattern. With our planned work in teacher education tapering off, certain questions now pose themselves for our consideration:

1. In view of the continuing acuteness of educational problems in the South, and in view of the early termination of the life of the Fund, what emphasis would be most effective over the remaining years?
2. Is it possible that there are educational forces at work in the South whose combined efforts over a period of years will not only increase the educational level of the people but will lessen and eventually eliminate racial discrimination in all its forms?
3. If so, where are these forces to be found? Are they within organized education, within churches and religious organizations, within farm groups, within organized labor, or elsewhere?
4. If there are such agencies with educational programs based on broad democratic principles, should the Fund seek them out and support them during the remaining years of its life?

Dear Brother Mitchell:

Enclosed herewith is receipt for your 1946 VCPAC membership dues. Your name heads the list for 1945 and 1946 - congratulations.

We have a VCPAC pamphlet at the printers and will send you several copies the last part of the week.

I enjoyed the chat with you during your recent visit to Richmond and appreciate the several pointers.

I have rented a room from a Mrs. Dittman at 1103 Essex Road, University Heights, Richmond, Virginia. Mrs. Dittman's brother, C. J. Apperson, lives there, and says he graduated ~~from~~ one of the colleges with you and would like for you to call him on your next visit to Richmond, phone 6-1497.

Come to see me when you are in Richmond.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Dr. Zehmer:

I went to a meeting called by the Rosenwald Fund in Chicago on November 10th and 11th. At the meeting a good many suggestions were made for circular material like that you are sending out in the New Dominion Series. Only one or two persons at the meeting had seen your material.

They all said they would like to be on your mailing list.

I don't know whether you can afford that or not, but here they are:

Additionally, Major Gould Beech, U. S. Army, Pentagon Building 2 E 578, Washington, D. C. Beech is particularly interested and in a position to do particular good. It would be best if you wrote him a letter and asked him to keep you advised as to his future address. He gets out of the army in six more weeks.

INSTITUTE ON THE RETURNING VETERAN
Sponsored by Virginia Council of Churches
Richmond, Va. Nov. 8-9, 1945

Va

Modling Speech: The five principal services provided for veterans are:

(1) financial aid
(2) medical aid
(3) vocational rehabilitation
(4) education and training
(5) employment assistance

There are three principal organizations providing these services:

(a) Veterans Administration - handling 1,2,3, and 4.
(b) USES - handling 5.
(c) Selective Service Boards - handling 5.

These three organizations are coordinated in the Reemployment and Retraining Administration.

Comparatively speaking, Virginia provides few special state benefits. It does offer certain education and rehabilitation services and promotes organization of local programs. It provides a claim service through the Division of War Veterans Claims and provides liaison between federal and local agencies.

Also, through the Virginia Veterans Assistance and Post-War Employment Committee established by the Governor, the state links the work of the Selective Service Boards, USES, and Veterans Administration on a state level together with that of the Virginia Planning Board and any voluntary groups in the fields of business, professions, veterans, labor, etc.

On the local level, local committees supplement federal and state aid through vocational counselling; psychiatric service, finding jobs, help in technical and local matters, and family service, all helping the veteran in gaining his personal and social readjustments. Also, it is a local responsibility to develop an intelligent attitude toward the veterans and to coordinate the various services and prevent run around.

Lt. Col. Harman said that the work of the Selective Service Boards for veterans involves reemployment and new employment where desired, information to veterans, the stimulation of national, state, and community awareness of responsibility to provide jobs.

He said that in Virginia the position had been taken that a big mistake would be made to take the veteran by the hand and lead him. He has got to live in the community and in the world as a civilian; if we aren't careful we will do harm and not good. The Selective Service Boards do not go out and seek the men to interview. They give the men credit for knowing what they want.

The Reemployment and Retraining Administration has issued orders that the Selective Service Boards in all of their facilities, the Veterans Administration in all of its, and the USES in all of its, shall establish and operate a Veterans Information Service. The SSB in Virginia gets along with a total of 375 paid clerks. All the rest is volunteer help.

85,801 veterans have come back to Virginia as of November 2, 1945.

Mr. Jones stated among other things that the information Center does not even ask and note the names of persons who come in for information unless it is necessary to send the persons out with letters to other agencies. During the month of October '45 the Veterans Information and Service Center in Richmond had 2,191 inquiries, of which 279 were telephone calls; 900 inquiries were answered right in the Center, and the others were referred out as follows: 116 to the Division of War Veterans Claims, 159 to Smaller War Plants Corporation, 158 to USES, 207 to Veterans Administration, 39 to VFW, 11 to American Legion, 25 to the Army, 19 to Internal Revenue, 120 to Selective Service Board, 218 to miscellaneous.

"Any man that's past the seventh grade ought to be able to understand this GI Bill of Rights; they wrote it in Congress, didn't they?"

Mr. Richards of the Division of War Veterans Claims said that the Division was started as a Bureau of the Department of Public Welfare in 1927. At the beginning of World War II they found a greater need for the service, especially for disabled veterans. The division has expanded with money appropriated by the last General Assembly. Head office at Roanoke. Now has six offices and aims for fifteen or twenty with a traveling service out from each office.

Miss Ames explained the work of her office at Richmond Professional Institute.

The man from the Salvation Army asked Col. Harman about discharges. Col. Harman classified discharges as (1) honorable, (2) dishonorable, (3) discharged. He explained that a dishonorable discharge (yellow) must be the result of court martial.

Selective Service Boards has responsibility to obtain reemployment only for persons of honorable discharge, but the rights of the GI Bill are available to persons of discharge othern than honorable, and steps taken to review it. Lt. Col. Harman expressed a view that there will not be any cases of dishonarable discharge in this war where those receiving them do not deserve them.

Mr. Irving Craig of Richmond asked how much information is given veterans at Separation Centers. Harmon said "a general idea and that's about all they can get as fast as they are shooting them out now". Over 1,800 a day are being released in Virginia at the present time. Jones said that a few months ago, people coming out of Separation Centers knew much more about their rights and privileges as veterans than do those coming out today. He explained that the time in Separation Centers has been reduced from 48 to 24 hours. If a boy having been entered into the separation machinery presents no particular problems, he has every likelihood of being ground out within the 24 hours, which is mainly what he wants. Therefore, to avoid being held over, Jones is certain that a good many boys take the attitude that the best thing to do is to sign anything put before them. He said he had had many examples of boys who had signed discharges which they knew at the time of signing were incorrect.

Alice Burke asked whether in coming decentralization of the Veterans Administration, they would employ both Negroes and whites in due proportion.

Col. C. C. Johnson said that three-fourths of the Negroes in the armed forces came from the South, and two-thirds of the three-fourths came from the rural South. "It is not exagerating to say that in a few years of service these men have acquired a generation of skills."

Mr. Baassa said that Richmond expects to have a few more jobs than workers in 1946. He hopes to expand and offer still more. The city has a committee of business men working at placing veterans with executive ability in suitable jobs. He described the operation of the Richmond Veterans Business Consultation Committee, embodying a panel of fifty business men, widely representative, who are active in advising veterans intending to go into particular lines of business. This service, he said, is available to both colored and white.

Mr. Hummel said that in each county in Virginia, except Arlington, there is now organized a Veterans Agricultural Advisory Committee.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Much to my disappointment, support for our Conference was so poor that I felt it my duty to postpone the gathering until Spring, or until the memberships decided otherwise. What is your opinion?

I enclose a financial report for 1944-1945, complete to November 1, 1945. During '44-'45 our committee has contacted 2500 persons by letter, miniographed material, and printed circulars. The Committee has received some publicity in the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the National Union Farmer. At present we are ready for a bigger and better organization, increased educational work, and wider publicity.

Material has been prepared for a short pamphlet embodying the composite economic ideas of various Committee members.

This pamphlet should be printed at once in order to answer numerous requests for such an item. Without a doubt the Reparian Committee needs this printed material, and I am sure that we can dispose of 1000 copies quickly, at a nominal price per copy.

Each member should shoulder a part of the printing cost. You may use your own judgement as to what share of the expense you want to bear. But try to get your part to us very soon. A frequent report will be made on what progress is being made to raise this printing fund. The printer informs me that 1000 copies of an attractive pamphlet may be had for approximately $100.00.

I am starting the fund drive with a $10.00 contribution. We have $90.00 to go. Let us cross the goal line rapidly, and move ahead to our next constructive step!

Fraternally yours

Dear George:

I have just gotten time to get together a statement concerning the finances of the recent Institute. I have had just two days in the office since the close of the Institute. There have been many fine expressions of appreciation from those attending. I have not as yet been able to check on the attendance. I do know that 115 registered the first day and 100 plus on the second day. Bristol, Danville, Norfolk, Warrenton, Middleburg, etc were the furtherst points from which people came.

As indicated in the statement we have some literature left over from the institute which I would suggest be used in making contacts with people across the state. Petersburg has opened a Veteran's Center within the past few days.

I appreciate the privilege of working with you in this endeavor and look forward to similiar experiences in the future.

Very sincerely yours,

Thos. C. Allen, Director.

Dear Warner:

The last time I was in Richmond, my friend, Mike Pugh, who runs the CIO, said they want to get in touch with some liberalish Virginia professors who might be asked to join the Virginia Citizens Political Action Committee. Would you have the kindness to send me from memory a list of persons considered even mildly liberal? I will send it without identifying marks to Mike.

We are householders in Georgia, and at any rate free of the poll tax.

I expect to get to Norfolk soon and shall make it a point to go by Williamsburg and see if you and Dorothy are living in your house.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

Dear George:

Thank you for your prompt reply to my recent letter and the enclosed check for $254.71. We did not intend for you to assume responsibility for the small deficit of $4.71. I was simply trying to give you an exact accounting of the cost of the Institute.

I have not as yet been able to write a full report on the Institute but will do so at the earliest possible moment. The notes which you took will prove very helpful.

You will be interested to know that we have had a returned service man doing some extra work for us in the office this week. It may be that we shall use him further. He expects to enter college just as soon as his eligibility papers are cleared through the Veterans' Administration.

Very sincerely yours,

Tom
